Ruminations

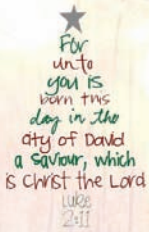

By mid-November, the boards were erected by Frère Viau at our residence. By the end of November, usually it was cold enough for our outdoor hockey rink to be set up with boards and lights, and the various floors in residence were gearing up for the annual ball hockey league. There were all kinds of strategies and experiments trying to figure a way to get the best advantage. Some of these ideas seemed a bit outlandish, and we would try anything to gain an advantage, after all, the Residence Cup was a very prestigious award which marked a year of bragging rights as the best. People tried spraying the bottoms of their running shoes with 'spray starch' to gain more traction, or thick heavy elastics to provide a good grip on the ice. The league started in earnest after returning to campus after Christmas, but there were lots of pick-up games and practices before everyone left for the Christmas break. It was a great way to blow off steam with the pressure of exams coming up, and the last-minute essays that needed to be handed in. Usually, the real cold of a Sudbury winter hadn't set in and often times we would be playing with our resident floor hockey shirts and gym shorts in late November. Looking back, I am not so sure that our youth made us impervious to the winter temperatures, or if our youth made us impervious to common sense. Whatever, it was a great time. This current weather certainly invoked these memories. It is late November, and I have donned shorts once again. This time I wouldn't brush it off as youthful invincibility, but a product of global warming. The atypical weather has certainly challenged our wardrobe habits. I still haven't dug out my winter jacket, and for the late, last-minute cleaning of the gardens, a tee shirt is still the order of the day. The front garden is still brilliant with plants that seem impervious to the dropping temperatures, and I feel badly needing to trim them, so I haven't yet. In fact, we just had a new red bud maple tree planted in the back corner, and spring should be exciting as we see it bud, adding a majestic and colourful centerpiece for the back garden. We have partially taken advantage of this unseasonable mild weather and the Christmas tree lights on the church roof are all installed and working. On the next nice day, we hope to festoon the trees front and back. The usual practice seems to have been waiting for the coldest day of the year to date and freeze butts and hands mounting them. Hopefully not this year. We want to be able to stay warm and cozy as we switch them on the Sunday before Christmas. That is the plan anyway. We are in the midst of preparing the backdrops for the nativity scenes in the hall with about 40 or so evergreen trees to be constructed out of various materials. We are hosting a 'jigsaw party' to help accomplish this feat. Jigsaw-ing, painting, and backlighting are all the order of the day. It seems like no matter how well one plans and plots, the Advent and Christmas season always drops upon us. I am sure it will soon be time to store those shorts and light jackets to be replaced with long johns, but for now, I am just going to reminisce about the early onsets of winter of my youth, and enjoy the unseasonable weather that lets lots of work get done in comfort and joy.

Advent Booklets

To help your family journey spiritually through the Advent season, and prepare for a deeper Christmas, there are reflection booklets and we encourage each family to take home and use as they might. In the busy-ness of our lives, sometimes we need little prompts to help us take time to keep our lives focused and in order on the things that are truly essential. Please feel free to take one home with you. They are on the table in the foyer with the missals

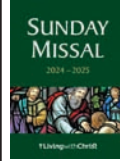

The Christmas Trees Are Here!

Once again the Knights are selling Christmas trees. Supplies are limited so if you are planning to support the Knights make sure to get yours early. The trees are locally grown and all proceeds will support local charities.

Sunday Missals

With the end of the liturgy cycle coming quickly to an end, the Sunday missals for next year, starting on November 30.

The Children's Missal is $7 and the Regular Missal is $5. They are at the entrance foyer. Please remember to put your name in the front of it.

The Book of Remembrance

As November is the month of remembering, we have once again set up our Book of the Deceased. Please feel free to inscribe the names of your loved ones and they are part of our Communal Intentions at every celebration of the Eucharist during this month.

CWG QUILT RAFFLE

The official reveal of the two quilts at our Christmas Bazaar on November 2nd was a huge success, and we look forward to selling lots of tickets leading up to the draw date on December 15th after the 11 o'clock Mass. The first prize quilt is Queen sized, made with love by Bride Pitcher, and the second prize is an iSpy quilt made by Al Taylor, both are parishioners. The CWG will be selling tickets before and after each Mass starting the weekend of November 23/24, and each weekend until December 14/15. Please remember to bring some cash with you to purchase tickets! The cost of tickets is $2 each, or 3 for $5. Thank you for your support!
