On The Road Together

We are all pilgrims on a journey. I thought about how some of our children and youth have been on a special pilgrimage journey this year as they prepare to receive the Sacraments of the First Holy Communion and Confirmation at our parish. So, in a lot of ways, our wonderful Gospel reading of the two disciples on their journey on the road to Emmaus speaks to us in the context of our reality today, in the way that we are all on a pilgrimage journey.

It is curious that even though these disciples encounter the resurrected Jesus on the road to Emmaus, something prevents them from recognizing him. Perhaps their presumption that Jesus was dead and had not risen to new life prevented them from recognizing him. Perhaps the resurrected Christ was transformed in such a way that made his appearance so different and unrecognizable.

Sometimes there are many reasons for our inability to recognize God's presence in our lives. Like those two disciples, we might be too focused on the past and are not ready to look toward the future. Or we can be so miserable and so disappointed in ourselves and in the reality around us that we cannot see the ways that Jesus is with us in the midst of that reality.

The message we are to receive in the Easter season is a message of hope and joy. That is the message of the Road to Emmaus as well. Think of how these two disciples were able to break away from the past and all that was holding them back. They were able to leave behind their frustration and confusion and to work towards healing from their brokenness. They were able to look beyond the hopeless and see the hope in the presence of Jesus with them. They were able to offer kindness and help to this stranger whom they initially failed to recognize. Finally, after they were able to break open God's word and break bread with this stranger, they were able to recognize Jesus in that stranger in their midst.

And that is what Christ is wanting us to do as well: to make sense of the reality of the risen Christ in our lives this Easter season, to talk and discuss, to inquire and examine. We may want to flee and just forget about things, to not face some of the realities that are present in our lives. But the risen Christ is there to help us in our reality, whatever that reality may be. Christ is risen, but what does that mean for us?

Grace and Peace
