

*'Twas almost my ninth Christmas at Seton when the bulletin was due
Time for a poetic year in review.*

*A lot can happen in such a short span of days
And life creates its own path in so many ways.
The big news I suppose of which we might boast
Is the retiring of one of three debts, congrats in the utmost.
The project of the new lights for energy saving reward
Overseen by the building committee board
Soon in the New Year, all lights will be replaced
A green eco endeavour with no energy waste.
The carpets need refreshing – well pulling up at least
They served us well but they have decreased.
Carpet tiles are the way to go, needing over 10,000 square feet
For church and hall those important places we meet.
And the change will make the spaces greater
We'll worry about all that later.
The hall was looking tired, dated and unquaint
So it's been refreshed with a Benjamin Moore paint
We've been working hard on a Fire Safety Plan
Extinguishers and exit ways, improving all we can.
Soon in the New Year there is a fire inspection
And hopefully all the work will meet the expectation.
It's been about six months preparing to meet this code
With all the parish pack rats in purging mode.
Since the flood damage in the rectory last Spring
We've gotten whole-heartedly into the renovation swing.
Floors, counters, cupboards and the basement too
All refreshed and so much better than even brand new.
Even outside where the flooding woes started to knock
There wonderful surface of new interlock,
This is all kind of behind the scenes stuff
And so time consuming, there is never enough.
The meaningful banners hanging in the Church
Are to inspire an internal existential search
That leads us into a spiritual depth as we strive
To grow more into a parish exceedingly alive.
Christmas always serves to give a fresh start
An incarnational spirt in each of us to impart
That each of us be a new source this Christmas morn
That in each of us, Christ continues to be born.
Merry Christmas.*

Fr. Roy

Praising God in song is a wonderful thing
As the 9.30 Choir loves to sing!
May the presence of Christ give us reason
To celebrate the spirit of the Christmas season!

Donna Maietta 9.30 Choir

May kindness and mercy be extended to you and from you during the Advent and Christmas season and throughout the coming year.
May blessings abound you; from small pleasures, to glorious divine mysteries and may the Light of God continue to always be in your midst. Merry Christmas
